STRONG SENTIMENT FOR GIVING WOMEN OF RUSSIA A VOTE

Will Be Given Vote For Their Valorous Conduct Under Guns During War

Woman's Argument is Silent Not Based on Street Parades and Flapping Banners But for Help Since Beginning of Great European War.

(United Press Correspondence.)

Petrograd, Jan. 1.—(By Mail.)—Russian women are winning their emanicipation on the battlefield. The same autocratic Russia that abolished Vodka in a night will think twice about equal suffrage after the war, it became known today. Inquiry in official circles tends to the belief that there is an overwhelming sentiment for rewarding the Russian women, at least those of the educated classes, for their valorous conduct under the guns.

The big war has brought the Russian woman to the fore. The traditional comradeship of Russian brothers and sisters in home life, the coeducational facilities of Russian universities, the capabilities of Russian women generally have all combined to give the female subjects of the Czar a masculine mentality. It took the war to change this to military feminism which already has demonstrated that the upper classes of Russian women are ready for the vote.

The Russian woman's argument for suffrage is silent. It is not based on street parades and flapping banners, as in America, or more violent demonstrations, as in England, but on a record of patriotic devotion and heroics on the battle front. The military regulations of the Czar's forces on land and sea decree that no woman may serve. These regulations are not obeyed. Accounts of female heroism come from every Russian battle front.

Everywhere Russian women are in the midst of the struggle. Some of the most blood-soaked Russian battle fields are stained with feminine blood. Base and field hospitals find countless nursing sisters. But it is the fighting sister in the ranks that has thrilled Russia during the last eighteen months. The records of bravery of the nursing sisters is a secondary chapter. The devotion of the lowliest peasant woman to war work is another. Here is the latest list of feminine heroines, fresh from the front:

Mlle. Kokevtseva, decorated with the St. George's Cross for daring reconnaissance work though wounded. She was a "cossack."

Mlle. Appolinia Ishtov, changed her name to become a common soldier in the regiment of her father. She carried him, dangerously wounded, from a burning cottage to the rear.

Mlle. Maria Hieloverskaia, a private, saw the major of her battalion fall during a brush with the enemy. She carried him to a place of safety. She wears the St. George's Cross of the Third and Fourth class.

Mlle. Olga Schidlowskaia joined the Hussars as "Oleg Schidlowsky" after her two brothers were killed at Soldau. She clipped her hair short. She will be decorated for valor.

Mlle. Olga Pietrowski seized her Colonel's sword after he fell, rallied the regiment and took an Austrian trench before falling mortally wounded.

Such acts of feminine heroism have been reported daily for months. Hospitals throughout the empire all have their "Amazon" wounded. There is no surprise when a wounded soldier in hospital proves to be a female. Behind every wound is a story. In most cases it is an extraordinary story. These stories are common now in Russia. There are in Petrograd hospitals alone today more than twenty wounded Russian girls. Half of them were students before they joined the army.

MISS MITCHELL HOSTESS.

Miss Jean Mitchell entertained a number of girls and boys last evening at her home on Walnut Street. Dancing and music were greatly enjoyed by all. A delightful lunch was served.

SEWING CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Miss Margaret Shillen entertained the Girls Sewing Club at a lovely Valentine Party on Saturday afternoon at her home on Ogden Avenue. The decorations were in keeping with the spirit of St. Valentine's Day. Pretty little cupids were given as favors. Delicious refreshments were served.

VALENTINE MASQUERADE PARTY.

A very enjoyable valentine masquerade party was held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Harrison on Linden Street last evening in honor of Mrs. A. B. Thompson. Dancing and games were enjoyed by all and an elegant supper was served at a late hour. Mrs. Thompson was prettily costumed to represent "America." Mrs. P. C Rogers was charming as a "butterfly." Toward the wee small hours of morning the guests departed voting Mrs. Harrison a splendid hostess.

GERMANS PREPARING FOR OFFENSIVE IN CHAMPAGNE

Bombardment so Vicious That French Remained Under Cover.

London, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The Germans are preparing for a still greater offensive blow in the Champagne designed to hurl back the French on a fifteen-mile front from the Charlierange railway according to dispatches received here today. Since yesterday the steady roll of German artillery has shaken the hills of the Champagne. The Germans are hurling thousands of high explosive shells at the French positions on the Ridges concentrating their fire on Tahure and the sector just east of the Navarin farm.

Paris expects the German blow to fall before night. The bombardment was so vicious that French troops were under cover during all of yesterday, according to advices received here. Sharp clashes between hand grenades were reported at the west end of the Champagne battle front, but there was no attempt during the daylight hours to recapture the trenches in the violent assault of the preceding night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO GIVE EXCELLENT PLAY

The girls of Miss Elizabeth Boyce's Sunday School class of the West Side M. E. Church will give a home talent play, "Three of a Kind" on Friday evening, February 18, at 8 o'clock. The play will be given in the auditorium of the College of Music on Locust Street and the price of admission is fifteen cents.

The girls have chosen this method of raising funds which will be used in church work. A large attendance is desired as the proceeds of the play will be used in helping a worthy cause and the play is one of great interest.

WIFE DESERTERS SENT TO WESTERN PEN TODAY

Two of the three wife deserters who have been lodged in the county jail for the past few weeks were taken to the western penitentiary today by Sheriff McCloskey after entering a plea of guilty. The two men, Frank Frey and Isaac Hoover, were two of the most aggravating cases of their kind which have been brought up before the court in some time. The third, William Zilloux entered a plea of guilty and his case was let down. It is doubtful if he will be sent to the pen.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

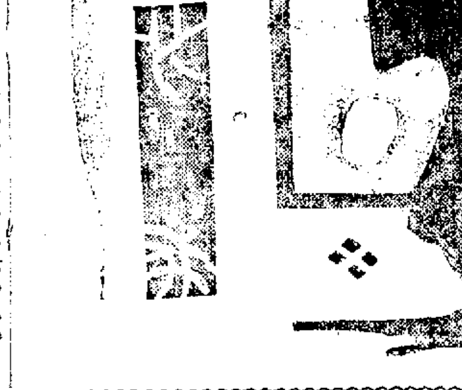

By BREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

CHARACTERS IN THE PREPAREDNESS DRAMA

Here are two characteristic photographs of Secretary of War Garrison, who resigned Thursday, February 10. Gen. Hugh L. Scott succeeded him as acting secretary of war. Representative James Hay, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, was largely responsible for bringing about the resignation. His failure to adopt the continental army plan, recommended by the secretary, led to the resignation.

ATTEMPT TO HALT INVESTIGATION OF BREWERIES FAILS

Attorneys Sought To Quash Subpoenaes Issued Because They Were Too Broad

Court Holds That Issuance of Subpoenas Entirely Within Rights—District Attorney May Secure Subpoenas on Every Paper.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The attempt of attorneys for the breweries association throughout Pennsylvania to halt the investigation of their alleged campaign donations was thwarted in federal court here today when Judges Thompson and Orr decided that the scope of the subpoenas already issued was not excessive.

The breweries through their attorneys had sought to quash the subpoenas issued by the court on the ground that they were too broad. They contended that if the subpoenas upon books, documents and papers of the various brewery associations were served it would require a railroad car to bring the mass of evidence before the grand jury. The court holds that the issuance of the subpoenas is entirely within the rights of the government.

The United States District Attorney Humes may come to the court and secure subpoenas upon every paper and document in the possession of the brewers' association. The grand jury will immediately begin work on the case. The first witnesses to be called are reported to be a number of [illegible] officials.

WAITRESS AT HOSPITAL FALLS IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Caught Between Wall and Elevator Few Feet Below Level of Floor.

Saturday evening Esther Shuback, a waitress at the Clearfield Hospital fell in the elevator shaft on the third floor of the building, and received several bad bruises, but escaped serious injury. It is not known exactly how the accident occurred but it is thought that the door was open and Miss Shuback went to step in the elevator but it had moved a few feet below the floor, without her knowing it and when she took a step in, she fell and was caught between the wall and the elevator. She called for help and when several nurses ran to her assistance they found her caught in this manner. She was released from her position and her bruises treated. She was also badly shaken up but escaped with only minor bruises.

FURTHER ARRESTS IN LAMBERT MURDER CASE

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—Further arrests in the mysterious tragedy of Marian Lambert were likely today. State Attorney Dady declared today that evidence necessary to complete the train of circumstances he is building about William H. Orpet is being concealed. Dady planned to question several employes of the estate of Cyrus H. McCormick [illegible] harvester on which young Orpet lived. Dady declared that some of these employes knew of Orpet's mysterious trips from Madison to meet Marian Lambert in the woods where she met her death.

FIRST DRAFTS OF ENGLAND'S DERBY ARMY MOBILIZED

Remarkable Scenes In London Today When Recruits Were Going To Whitehall

Boys Between Nineteen and Twenty-Two Who Weeks Ago Answered Lord Derby's Call Gather Throughout England to Get Into Khaki.

BY WILBUR FORREST

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 1.—(By Mail.)—The first drafts of England's Derby Army mobilized today. Youths of years ranging from nineteen to twenty-two who weeks ago answered Lord Derby's group system of enlistment, gathered throughout England to get into khaki. They came from workshops, bank desks, department stores and other walks of life. They are now being distributed in scores of training camps learning to form fours, salute their officers properly and wield the shovel and rifle.

There were remarkable scenes in London today. Recruits had been instructed to come in shifts at two hour intervals. They flocked to the great Central recruiting depot in Whitehall. The first recruit was a little early. He came from a big banking establishment where he had just bade fellow clerks farewell. He had been instructed to appear in his oldest clothes in order that they could be thrown away when he donned his suit of khaki.

The boy followed instructions. His coat and trousers might have been worn by a Weary Willie. His shoes [illegible] down at the heel. Yesterday he wore a [illegible] coat and shiny silk [illegible] at the bank. He had borrowed [illegible]. A brief medical examination followed his arrival in Whitehall. Ten minutes later he left [illegible] railroad station to join a regiment to which he had been assigned.

Six months from now the boy will be a full fledged soldier ready to go to the front. He will be larger, broader and healthier. It's a ten to one chance that he'll never go back to the bank after the war. It's a one to ten chance that he'll go to Canada or Australia, where he can keep his lungs full of fresh air.

Hundreds of youths followed the bank clerk. Some were perfectly fit and were [illegible]. The majority [illegible]

HIGH SCHOOL WILL PLAY BROOKVILLE HERE FRIDAY

Clearfield Has Fine Record This Season, Being Defeated Only Once.

Friday evening on the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium floor, the Clearfield High school basket ball team will play the strong Brookville High team. The game is expected to be one of the fastest and most interesting of the season here. It is the third game the High school boys have played on the home floor and should be patronized by every one interested in the sport.

Last Friday the Red and Black team met with their first defeat of the season when Indiana Normal outplayed them at Indiana. So far this season Clearfield has won five games lost one and tied one, which is an exceptionally good record considering the class of teams which they play. Coach Reading has his team in fine shape and is confident of adding another victory to the long list.

KEYNOTE OF REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES EXPECTE DTODAY

Gov. Whitman Declines to Become Candidate, But Will Be Delegate.

New York, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The keynote of Republican national principles in the presidential campaign this year was expected to be sounded in the state platform to be adopted by New York Republicans in state convention at Carnegie Hall here today. The so-called Big Four delegates to the National Republichn convention in Chicago are to be named today and ratified at the April 4th primaries. Elihu Root opened the convention as temporary chairman. Senator Wadsworth and Gov. Whitman have been mentioned as possible delegates at large. Root and William Berri, of Brooklyn, and David Jayne Hill, of Rochester, have also been mentioned as possible delegates. William Barnes, of Albany, has declined to be a delegate. The delegation is expected to go to Chicago uninstructed. The convention today is expected to commend Gov. Whitman's state administration. Whitman has abandoned his presidential aspirations for this year, he has anonunced.

ROUMANIAN MOBILIZATION IS REPORTED COMPLETED

London, Feb. 14. (By United Press)—Belief that Roumania is drifting into the war on the side of the allies was strengthened today by official dispatches from Paris reporting the Roumanian mobolization completed. Paris also reported that reconstruction of Roumanian works along the Danube and on the Hungarian frontier to guard against possible invasions by the Bulgarians or Austro-Hungarians, have been finished.

TONSORIAL PARLORS BOAST THEIR PRICES TODAY

Harrisburg, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—Prices were boosted in every one of Harrisburg's 115 tonsorial parlors today, which hadn't boosted them February 1. A hair cut now costs 25 cents and a shampoo the same, advances of a nickel each. Plain shaves remain at 10 cents, but a simple luxury like hot towels costs half as much more.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LEVEE BREAKS FLOODING DISTRICT

[illegible], Miss., Feb. 15.—(By United [illegible].)—The main Mississippi River levee about 25 miles above St. Joseph, Miss., broke early today. The flood waters are pouring through the huge crevice. Thousands of acres are being flooded. The gap has widened to a mile and hundreds of persons are making their way to the high lands. Five parishes will be flooded. Fifty towns will be overflowed.

TWENTY FOUR MEN PERISH IN MINE FIRE LAST NIGHT

Butte, Mon., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—Rescue men in helmets were today fighting their way to the 1,200 foot level of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company's Pennsylvania mine where twenty-four men were believed to have perished in a fire late last night. Two of the bodies recovered were William Mitchell, assistant mine foreman, and Neil Brennan, a miner.

U. S. MAY OPPOSE TEUTON POLICY TO SINK ARMED BOATS

Resolution Protesting Against Recognition of Order Is Introduced in Senate

Protest Against Policy Would Bring About Delicate Situation With Central Powers — Protest Will Be Made By Allies.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—With only four days remaining, the state department today was still considering the attitude it will take toward the Teuton decree that all armed merchant ships will be torpedoed without warning after February 29th. It was even hinted in high official circles that President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have about concluded that a formal announcement of how this nation views the latest U-boat policy of German and Austria may not be necessary.

This results from realization that to protect the Teutonic decree inevitably would bring about a delicate situation with the central powers in view of the state department's suggestion to the entente allies that they voluntarily agreed to disarm all merchant vessels. On the other hand to accept by formal announcement the Teuton policy, it was pointed out at the state department and in British, French and Italian diplomatic circles here, would bring forth bitter protest against any change of international rules of war as an unneutral act.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—A resolution protesting against recognition by the United States of Germany's order threatening to torpedo armed merchant vessels was introduced in the senate today by Senator Sterling, South Dakota Republican.

THRESHERS PROTECTIVE CONVENTION.

Harrisburg, Feb. 15.—The annual convention of the Pennsylvania Threshmen's and Farmer's Protective Association opened here today. The attendance is large, with much interest in an exhibit of machinery, a new feature. The members plan to make a campaign for a reduction in the liability insurance rate for threshmen's employes, which they declare is unreasonably high.

WAR NEWS OF ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

The greatest aid raid in history to date was made on German positions in Ostend, Zeebrugge, Ghistelles, Middelkerke and other Belgian towns. Germans captured Plock and Bielsk, in Poland. The Russian retreat from East Prussia continued. Greece was concentrating 20,000 troops at Salonica.

WILSON'S HAT IN THE RING.

President Wilson's letter Monday giving formal consent to the use of his name as a candidate for the Presidency was written to satisfy the technical requirements of the Ohio primary law. It adds nothing to what has been known for a long time to the politicians of his own party. It is only a month since the publication of the letter to A. Mitchell Palmer in which he defined his views on the subject of the presidential term and the eligibility of a President for re-election, but it will not be forgotten that that letter was written early in February, 1913. Nor will it be imagined that the President's view of the binding force of the one-term plank of the Baltimore convention was unknown to the leading Democrats of the country in and out of the Administration.

The plank in question was written into the platform solely on the responsibility of Mr. Bryan, and while the President's own silence on the subject during the campaign and his later official relations with the author of what was commonly understood to have been intended to be self-denying ordinance may have led to some temporary uncertainity in the minds of the uninformed as to Mr. Wilson's own intentions and desires, there has never been any serious doubt about the matter. The President has proclaimed his purpose to make no active effort to secure for himself re-nomination. In his letter to Mr. Palmer he announced his willingness to leave his case to the people and to take his "chances in the court of public opinion."

President Wilson has no openly declared opponent before the "court of public opinion"—meaning, in this instance, the public opinion of his own party—if ex-Secretary Bryan is left out of the account. The intentions of Mr. Bryan are for the moment an unknown factor in the equation, as is also the extent and weight of the influence which Mr. Bryan may be able to wield in the coming National Convention of his party. Many things may happen to change the situation in the four months that will elapse before the delegates assemble in Chicago, but from all present indications Wilson and his methods and policies will be the objective toward which the Republicans must aim their batteries.

The President has all the advantages of position. Even though he should keep strictly to his announced intention to forego the use of patronage or coercion to control the selection of delegates, those instruments will undoubtedly be employed in his behalf. This fact alone should awaken the Republicans to the vital necessity of getting together. Only by a genuine, not a factitious, display of harmony, only by a union of forces upon a candidate and a platform really acceptable to both wings of the party can the Republicans be sure of overcoming the initial handicap under which their campaign must be waged.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STATISTICS SHOW FACTS ABOUT MT. CARMEL DEATHS

Editor Predicts That There Will Be No Deaths in 1929.

Mount Carmel, Pa., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The following statement was made to the United Press today by W. P. Kemble, editor of the Mount Carmel Item:

The Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Washington, has just issued a bulletin on mortality statistics that shows some surprising facts. The bulletin shows deaths and death rates in 1914, with comparative rates for recent years, for cities in the registration area that have 10,000 or more inhabitants.

"The figures for Mt. Carmel, Pa., show that according to official reports there were 212 deaths in this city in the year 1914. Death rate per 1,000 population for our town is given as follows: Year 1914, 10.9; year 1913, 11.1; year 1912, 12.3; average, 1906 to 1910, 13.9; average 1901 to 1905, was 18.1.

"Assuming that the death rate per thousand inhabitant in 1904 was 18.1, and noting that the precise rate in 1914 was 10.9, a reduction of 7.2, we find that ten years later, in 1924, the death rate should be just 3.7 per thousand, provided the sum total of population does not change, and that at the same ratio of decrease there should be no deaths in the year 1929 in Mount Carmel.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

In the course of a war in which the commonplace dining room table looms as large in considerations of grand strategy as fortified lines, troop distributions, munitions supplies, and favorable battle grounds, it is but natural that work-aday world, whether belligerent or non-belligerent, should, of a sudden, become keenly interested in determining just how it is fed, just where the daily supplies for the kitchen larder come from. Each day of the European war has brought it new conjectures as to the advantages and disadvantages of different nations' places at the world table, and many of these conjectures have been based on more or less reckless guessing. The following sketch of the world's meat supply, taken from a study prepared for the National Geographic Society at Washington by William Joseph Showalter on the sources contributing to Humanity's Market Basket, brings timely and accurate information on a subject over which all people are discussing:

"Taking the world's supply of cattle, hogs, and sheeps, and making proper allowance for the less improved methods of stock raising on other parts of the globe as compared with those of the United States, it appears that mankind at large uses in the neighborhood of forty-seven million pounds of meat a year. This would be an average of about 39 pounds per capita throughout the world. The people of the Uunited States f few years ago were eating 172 pounds per capita, which is more than four times as much as the average for the race.

"Next to the Australians, the American people are the largest of all meat eaters. In butchers' meat, the latest statistics showed the American to be eating 172 pounds, the Englishman 119 pounds, the German 113 pounds, the Frenchman and the Belgian 80 pounds, the Austro-Hungarian 64 pounds, the Russian 50 pounds, and the Spaniard 49 pounds. The average American—whose table, by the way, is the most plenteous table the world around—eats 80½ pounds of beef, 7½ pounds of veal, 78 pounds of pork and lard, and 6¼ pounds of mutton and lamb a year.

"Where we eat 80 pounds of beef, the Englishman eats 56 pounds, the Frenchman 37 pounds, and the German 36 pounds. Where we eat 78 pounds of pork, including lard, the Englishman eats 33 pounds, the German 67 pounds, and the Frenchman 26 pounds.

"We eat 7½ pounds of veal where the Englishman eats 4 pounds, the German 7½ pounds, and the Frenchman 8 pounds; and we eat 6¼ pounds of mutton and lamb where the Englishman eats 26 pounds, the German 2½ pounds, and the Frenchman 9 pounds.

"From these figures it will be seen that the Frenchman eats less than half the beef we do. He eats as much beef as the German, but less than half as much pork.

"It is interesting to study the per capita production of meats in the countries of the Central Powers at the present time. The statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture reveal the fact that Germany, Austria--Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey had a total of approximately 50,000,000 cattle before the war began.

"The Department of Agriculture says that about one-fifth of the total number of cattle in Germany are slaughtered annually. Assuming that the net weight of those of Germany and Austria-Hungary corresponds with the net weight of our own cattle, and that the net weight of those of Bulgaria and Turkey is only 300 pounds where ours is 543, it would appear that there is a 34 pound per capita production of beef in the Central Powers.

"There are 37,000,000 hogs in the countries of the Teutonic Alliance. The Department of Agriculture's statistics show that the annual slaughter in Germany is 110.4 per cent. of the total number of hogs on hand at a given time; therefore it would appear that there is a per capita production of pork amounting to 45 pounds in the Central Powers.

"Based on the German ratio of the sheep killed to those found on the farms of the country at a given time, the annual slaughter of sheep in the region controlled by the Central Powers is 31,000,000. Assuming that the average dressed weight per sheep is only 30 pounds, as compared with 41 pounds in the United States, there would be a production of 941,000,000 pounds of mutton, or 6.7 pounds per capita.

"This give sa total production of meat, omitting horse and goat meat, of 85.7 pounds per capita among the Central Powers. The Department of Agriculture gives the average German consumption as 113 pounds, and the average Austro-Hungarian consumption as 64 pounds. It is probable that Bulgarian and Turkish consumption approximates that of the Russian, which is 50 pounds.

"In the past few years the United States has shown a tendency to reduce the volume of meat it consumes per capita. The high cost of butchers' meat has forced Americans to find substitutes, and it is not improbable that in the course of another generation meat eating in this country will fall far below the mark it has hitherto held.

"Not only has our home consumption of meat fallen off, but our exports of animal products have declined immensely in ten years. If it were not for our enormous exports of lard, we would be in danger of having our foreign meat trade become a negligible quantity.

"But in spite of the slowing up of the per capita home consumption and of our declining meat export trade, the meat-packing industry today still takes first rank among all the manufacturing industries of the United States in the value of its products. Under the 1910 census the products of the meat-packing industry were valued at $1,370,000,000, as compared with $1,228,000,000 for foundry and machine shop products, their closest rival.

"During a recent year the on-the-hoof production of meats on the American farm was 8,265,000,000 pounds of beef, 409,000,000 pounds of veal, 987,000,000 pounds of mutton and lamb, and 6,856,000,000 pounds of pork."

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

The name of Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, has been filed by petition as a candidate for mayor of St. Paul.

The supporters of Albert B. Cummins confidently expect him to win the indorsement of Minnesota Republicans in the presidential primaries next month.

Albert M. Spear, an associate justice of the Maine supreme court, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Mayor Charles W. Bryan, of Lincoln, a brother of the former Secretary of State, has fulfilled the general expectation by entering the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor of Nebraska.

Dr. L. G. Hardman has begun an active campaign for the governorship of Georgia in opposition to Gov. Nat E. Harris, who is a candidate for renomination. Both candidates are in favor of prohibition.

Arkansas is in the heat of a spirited political campaign which will end with the Democratic primaries on March 29, when the voters will choose candidates for governor and other state offices to be elected next November.

North Carolina Democrats will try to make a clean sweep of the congressional delegation next fall. In the last election one Republican congressman was elected and in another district the vote of the Republicans and Progressives totalled more than the Democratic vote, but the Democrat was elected.

BALDWIN BUYS LAND MINERS GET INCREASE INDUSTRIAL BRIEFS

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—The Baldwin Locomotive Works it was officialyl announced today has acquired over one hundred acres of land in Ridley township, near here. The land was purchased from the Ward Estates and the deal is said to have involved nearly $200,000.

Although no details were given out officially as to what purpose the new land will be put, it is generally believed, the Baldwin concern contemplates straightening of the Grum River, which passes through the large works of the Baldwin plant emptying into the Delaware River.

Uniontown, Feb. 15.—Announcement has been made here that fifty thousand miners and coke workers in Fayette County are affected by wage increases of ten per cent. The increase is on the scale adopted April 1, 1912, and is the highest ever known in the coke region.

The first announcement was made by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, a subsidiary of the United States Corporation. Shortly afterward the local officials of the W. J. Rainey estate announced the same increase would be given its 1,200 men.

The Frick Company employs about 20,000 men. Officials of independent companies have stated that the increase will be universal throughout the coke region.

Pottstown, Feb. 15.—Officials of the Worth Steel Mills, at Coatesville, announced today that the company has leased the plate mill of the Glasgow Iron Company, at Glasgow, and will incorporate a new company to be known as the Noble Steel Company. The original mill was destroyed by fire 18 years ago and although it was rebuilt it never has been operated.

ROOT AND THE PRESIDENCY.

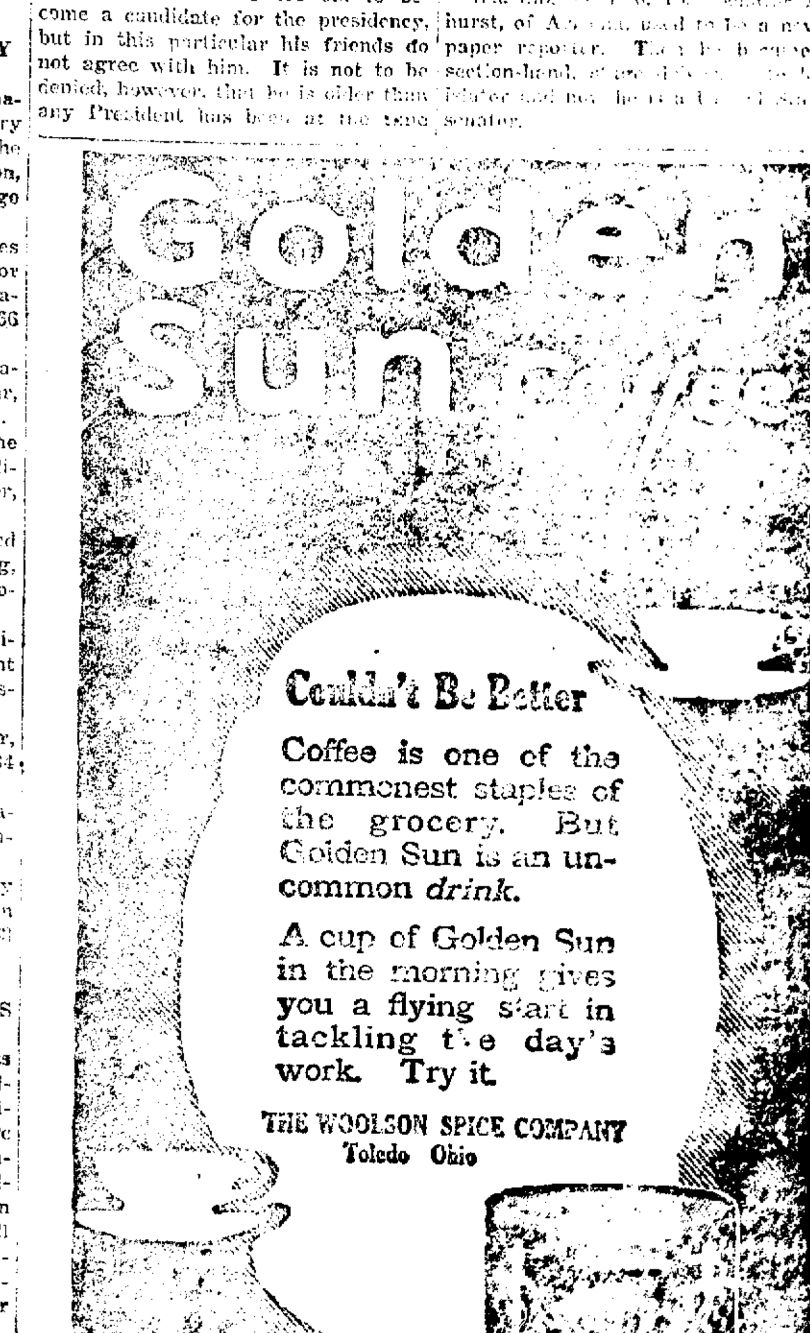

New York, Feb. 15.—Former Senator Elihu Root celebrated his birthday anniversary today by presiding over the unofficial state convention which met in this city for the purpose of recommending four delegates at large and four alternates to the Republican national convention at Chicago.

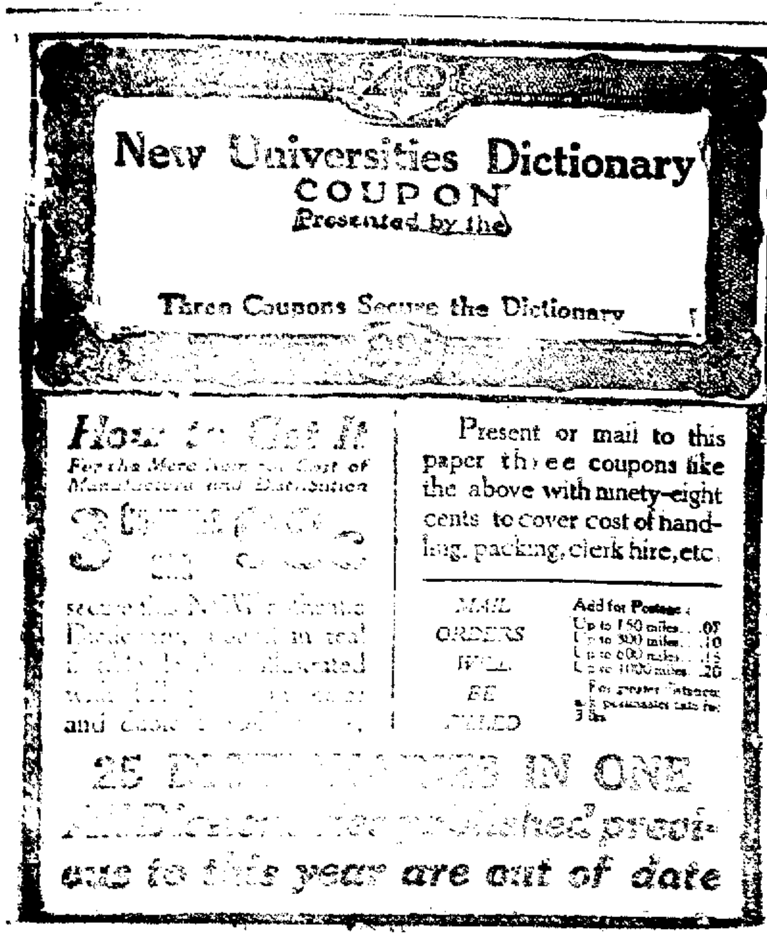

Mr. Root is seventy-one years old, a fact that is not wholly without interest in connection with the frequent mention of his name for the Republican president nomination. Mr. Root ha sbeen heard to remark that he considers himself too old to become a candidate for the presidency, but in this particular his friends do not agree with him. It is not to be denied, however, that he is older than any President has been at the time he held office. If nominated and elected to succeed President Wilson Mr. Root would be seventy-two years old at the time of his inauguration. This is three years older than the oldest President has been. The oldest President was William Henry Harrison, who was [illegible] of his inauguration [illegible] next oldest of our chief executives was James Buchanan, who was [illegible] of age at the time he [illegible]

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

I have a four cylinder car which I am stripping for a racing type roadster. I wish to make it as light and fast as possible. Will you kindly give me some pointers in this matter?

First reduce the weight of the vehicle [illegible] possible, removing all [illegible] [illegible]. Since wind resistance [illegible] factor, it becomes evident that every effort should be made to streamline the car. [illegible] air currents [illegible]. It is considered [illegible] to care for the rear of the car as it is to look after the front in this respect. After the parts have been stream lined as much as possible the mechanical end should be considered. If possible, the valve seats should be increased in size and new and larger valves obtained. The size of the valve seats may be increased [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] the carburetor, for if the [illegible] valves are made larger [illegible] the piston rings, but if the pistons have [illegible] narrow rings this should [illegible] [illegible] pistons help matters [illegible] aluminum [illegible] steel, while others [illegible] holes in [illegible] [illegible] rods, new [illegible] rods [illegible] [illegible] better.

One of the first essentials for a [illegible] is to have a pressure oiling system with a hand control on the [illegible] within easy reach of the [illegible] oil from the [illegible] to the crank case [illegible] valves properly placed can control the direction of flow. The [illegible] of [illegible] cars are equipped with magnetos of the double distributor type, so that they feed to two sets of spark plugs at the same time.

Is it necessary to oil a lighting generator?

[illegible] the ball bearings at the ends of the armature shaft should be [illegible] with four or five drops of oil [illegible] oil holes in the [illegible] which the spout of the oil can may be directed.

What is the best method of cleaning leather upholstery?

The [illegible] thing to apply to the upholstery [illegible] good leather dressing [illegible]. There are a number of good ones on the market. Water in which there is a little ammonia is also a good leather cleaner [illegible] after using it a soft cloth [illegible] to rub the surface [illegible]

[illegible] in the same circuit and each will take current according to its resistance. If you were to take two six volt lamps consuming five-tenths amperes each and place them in series in a six volt line the lamps would burn dimly because they would be operating at one-half their regular voltage.

When using a six cylinder engine, three and one-half [illegible] two [illegible] candle power seven volt headlights switched on full, one tail light and one dash light, each four candle power, three and one-half volt, what proportion of the [illegible] is consumed for ignition of the engine?

The ignition system does not take very much current, the total amount being measured in milliamperes. The exact amount required depends upon the resistance of the ignition system.

Is the amount of current consumed for ignition constant, or do different engine speeds or different road conditions cause it to vary?

The current consumed varies [illegible] because as the [illegible] due to throttle opening [illegible] the current becomes greater. The difference in current consumption at [illegible] and 900 r. p. m. would [illegible]

Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By [illegible]EEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

INDIANA TO HOLD MOST MOMENTOUS PRIMARY CONTEST

Wilson And Fairbanks Only Presidential Candidates On Indiana Ballot

Prohibition Fight Greatest State Issue This Year—Contest For Senatorship Closely Interwoven With Contest For Gubernatorial Nomination.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Three weeks from today Indiana citizens will troop to the polls to cast their ballots in the most momentous primary contest ever held in the state. A feature of the primary will be the selection of delegates to the presidential nominating conventons—the first to be named in any of the states. In adition, the primary will decide the candidates for United States senator and for governor and other state officials to be voted for at the election next November.

Under the new primary law the voters of the state vote a presidential preference at the primaries, for the first time. Wilson and Fairbanks will have the support of the Indiana Democrats and Republicans, respectively. No other names will appear on the ballot. Under the law the Indiana delegates will be required to support the primary choice for President as long as his name is before the national convention. If he fails of nomination and his name is withdrawn the delegates are free to support whom they please.

No opposition exists to the renomination of Senator John W. Kern by the Democrats. The Republicans have several candidates for the senatorship. James E. Watson, Republican whip when Cannon was speaker of the House, is a candidate. So is Harry New, member of the Republican National Committee for eight years. Arthur Robinson, Republican leader in the last state senate, also is a candidate.

On the Republican side the contest for the senatorship is closely interwoven with the contest for the gubernatorial nomination. The aspirants for the head of the Republican state ticket are Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, James P. Goodrich, of Winchester, Quincey A. Myers, of Logansport, and R. O. Johnson, of Gary.

The Watson candidacy for the senatorship is especially undesirable to those who are backing Goodrich for the governorship nomination. Mr. Goodrich for ten years was Republican state chairman, and he held on pretty close to the time the Progressives slipped away from the party. Mr. Goodrich is not known as a stand patter, at least his affiliations have not been what those of Watson have been, and his friends believe that with him they could get the support of the former Progressives. But with Watson on the ticket as the candidate fo rsenator and Goodrich as the candidate for governor it is feared that Progressives might shy. The Goodrich supporters favor Harry New for the senatorship and they appear confident in the belief that New has the inside track over Watson.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for governor is between John A. M. Adair, of Portland, for eight years a representative in congress from the Eighth district, and Leonard G. Clore, of Laporte. Unbiased onlookers are picking Adair to win because he has the support of the strong state organization.

The Progressives have filed petitions for candidates for United States senator and governor, but none for President. Judge James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, will be the party choice for senator and former Gov. J. Frank Hanly will have no opposition for the head of the state ticket. While the Progressive leaders can scarcely hope to carry Indiana for a separate candidate, the party may nevertheless play a considerable part in the election results. A number of congressional districts, as well as many individual counties, are very close and a poll of only about 5 per cent. by the Progressives might swing the election to the other party.

The big state issue in Indiana this year, and one that will probably decide the contest for United States senator as well, is the prohibition fight—or rather, the fight to keep away from prohibition. Each side fears the issue and in all probability neither platform will contain a prohibition pank. Yet prohibition is the real question in Indiana politics at the present time and it may have a deciding effect upon the national election in this state. Some years ago seventy-seven out of ninety-two counties in Indiana were as dry as laws could make them. In twelve counties the question came to a vote. Then the unit of prohibition was changed to the city, village or township, and practically all of Indiana voted to turn "wet" again.

DUCK SEASON OPENS TODAY.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The spring duc kshooting season opened in Illinois today but the waterfowl are passing over the Sucker fields, rivers and lakes unmolested because the Federal law prohibits the killing of ducks except in the fall.

Illinois hunters are awaiting anxiously and somewhat impatiently for the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Kansas case which tests the validity of the law eliminating the spring shooting season. In Kansas the order was held unconstitutional and the government appealed to the supreme court, where it has been pending since 1914.

SUFFERING SNAKES.

Greenville, Pa., Feb. 15.—Two residents of Stoneboro near here have added another tale to Pennsylvania's famous list of snake stories. The two men moved a log while walking through a heavy patch of timber near the city and were almost paralyzed with fright at the sight of a nest of fifty black snakes. Recovering their composure, they began a slaughter which resulted in the death of twenty seven snakes.

Stomach Troubles Quickly Cured.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take Tonoline Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink Tonoline tablets sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

Tonoline Tablets not only [illegible] relieve [illegible] distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal.

INDIVIDUAL DRINKING CUPS FOR HORSES.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15.—A ban on the public drinking fountain for horses has been proposed by humane societies here following the rapid spread of glanders, an extremely contagious disease. The disease is so insidious that a grave danger faces not only the animals but the families of men caring for afflicted horses. Dr. D. C. Geerhart has called attention to the danger by reporting two cases. One horse he attended was owned by a milkman and the other by a butcher. To stamp out the disease, various organizations plan to replace the drinking fountains with hydrants and compel driver to carry individual drinking buckets for theri animals.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a seive and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless. 7

STRONG SENTIMENT FOR GIVING WOMEN OF RUSSIA A VOTE

Will Be Given Vote For Their Valorous Conduct Under Guns During War

Woman's Argument is Silent Not Based on Street Parades and Flapping Banners But for Help Since Beginning of Great European War.

(United Press Correspondence.)

Petrograd, Jan. 1.—(By Mail.)—Russian women are winning their emanicipation on the battlefield. The same autocratic Russia that abolished Vodka in a night will think twice about equal suffrage after the war, it became known today. Inquiry in official circles tends to the belief that there is an overwhelming sentiment for rewarding the Russian women, at least those of the educated classes, for their valorous conduct under the guns.

The big war has brought the Russian woman to the fore. The traditional comradeship of Russian brothers and sisters in home life, the coeducational facilities of Russian universities, the capabilities of Russian women generally have all combined to give the female subjects of the Czar a masculine mentality. It took the war to change this to military feminism which already has demonstrated that the upper classes of Russian women are ready for the vote.

The Russian woman's argument for suffrage is silent. It is not based on street parades and flapping banners, as in America, or more violent demonstrations, as in England, but on a record of patriotic devotion and heroics on the battle front. The military regulations of the Czar's forces on land and sea decree that no woman may serve. These regulations are not obeyed. Accounts of female heroism come from every Russian battle front.

Everywhere Russian women are in the midst of the struggle. Some of the most blood-soaked Russian battle fields are stained with feminine blood. Base and field hospitals find countless nursing sisters. But it is the fighting sister in the ranks that has thrilled Russia during the last eighteen months. The records of bravery of the nursing sisters is a secondary chapter. The devotion of the lowliest peasant woman to war work is another. Here is the latest list of feminine heroines, fresh from the front:

Mlle. Kokevtseva, decorated with the St. George's Cross for daring reconnaissance work though wounded. She was a "cossack."

Mlle. Appolinia Ishtov, changed her name to become a common soldier in the regiment of her father. She carried him, dangerously wounded, from a burning cottage to the rear.

Mlle. Maria Hieloverskaia, a private, saw the major of her battalion fall during a brush with the enemy. She carried him to a place of safety. She wears the St. George's Cross of the Third and Fourth class.

Mlle. Olga Schidlowskaia joined the Hussars as "Oleg Schidlowsky" after her two brothers were killed at Soldau. She clipped her hair short. She will be decorated for valor.

Mlle. Olga Pietrowska seized her Colonel's sword after he fell, rallied the regiment and took an Austrian trench before falling mortally wounded.

Such acts of feminine heroism have been reported daily for months. Hospitals throughout the empire all have their "Amazon" wounded. There is no surprise when a wounded soldier in hospital proves to be a female. Behind every wound is a story. In most cases it is an extraordinary story. These stories are common now in Russia. There are in Petrograd hospitals alone today more than twenty wounded Russian girls. Half of them were students before they joined the army.

MISS MITCHELL HOSTESS.

Miss Jean Mitchell entertained a number of girls and boys last evening at her home on Walnut Street. Dancing and music were greatly enjoyed by all. A delightful lunch was served.

SEWING CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Miss Margaret Shillen entertained the Girls Sewing Club at a lovely Valentine Party on Saturday afternoon at her home on Ogden Avenue. The decorations were in keeping with the spirit of St. Valentine's Day. Pretty little cupids were given as favors. Delicious refreshments were served.

VALENTINE MASQUERADE PARTY.

A very enjoyable valentine masquerade party was held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Harrison on Linden Street last evening in honor of Mrs. A. D. Thompson. Dancing and games were enjoyed by all and an elegant supper was served at a late hour. Mrs. Thompson was prettily costumed to represent "America." Mrs. P. C Rogers was charming as a "butterfly." Toward the wee small hours of morning the guests departed voting Mrs. Harrison a splendid hostess.

GERMANS PREPARING FOR OFFENSIVE IN CHAMPAGNE

Bombardment so Vicious That French Remained Under Cover.

London, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The Germans are preparing for a still greater offensive blow in the Champagne designed to hurl back the French on a fifteen-mile front from the Charlierange railway according to dispatches received here today. Since yesterday the steady roll of German artillery has shaken the hills of the Champagne. The Germans are hurling thousands of high explosive shells at the French positions on the Ridges concentrating their fire on Tahure and the sector just east of the Navarin farm.

Paris expects the German blow to fall before night. The bombardment was so vicious that French troops were under cover during all of yesterday, according to advices received here. Sharp clashes between hand grenades were reported at the west end of the Champagne battle front, but there was no attempt during the daylight hours to recapture the trenches in the violent assault of the preceding night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO GIVE EXCELLENT PLAY

The girls of Miss Elizabeth Boyce's Sunday School class of the West Side M. E. Church will give a home talent play, "Three of a Kind" on Friday evening, February 18, at 8 o'clock. The play will be given in the auditorium of the College of Music on Locust Street and the price of admission is fifteen cents.

The girls have chosen this method of raising funds which will be used in church work. A large attendance is desired as the proceeds of the play will be used in helping a worthy cause and the play is one of great interest.

WIFE DESERTERS SENT TO WESTERN PEN TODAY

Two of the three wife deserters who have been lodged in the county jail for the past few weeks were taken to the western penitentiary today by Sheriff McCloskey after entering a plea of guilty. The two men, Frank Frey and Isaac Hoover, were two of the most aggravating cases of their kind which have been brought up before the court in some time. The third, William Zilloux entered a plea of guilty and his case was let down. It is doubtful if he will be sent to the pen.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

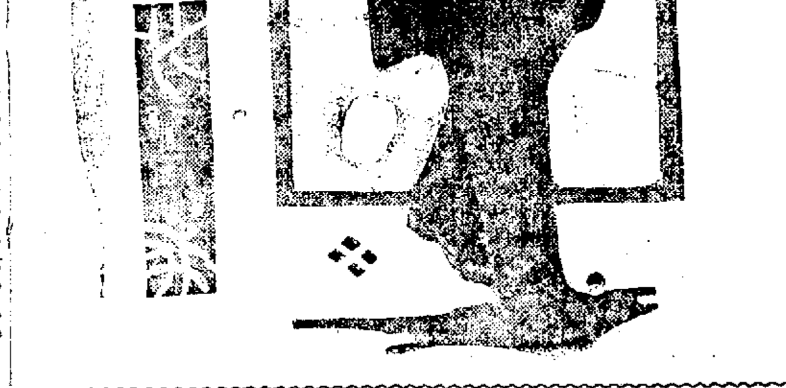

By BREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

CHARACTERS IN THE PREPAREDNESS DRAMA

Here are two characteristics photographs of Secretary of War Garrison, who resigned Thursday, February 10. Gen. Hugh L. Scott succeeded him as acting secretary of war. Representative James Hay, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, was largely responsible for bringing about the resignation. His failure to adopt the continental army plan, recommended by the secretary, led to the resignation.

ATTEMPT TO HALT INVESTIGATION OF BREWERIES FAILS

Attorneys Sought To Quash Subpoenaes Issued Because They Were Too Broad

Court Holds That Issuance of Subpoenas Entirely Within Rights—District Attorney May Secure Subpoenas on Every Paper.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The attempt of attorneys for the breweries association throughout Pennsylvania to halt the investigation of their alleged campaign donations was thwarted in federal court here today when Judges Thompson and Orr declared that the scope of the subpoenas already issued was not excessive.

The breweries through their attorneys had sought to quash the subpoenas issued by the court on the ground that they were too broad. They contended that if the subpoenas upon books, documents and papers of the various brewery associations were served it would require a railroad car to bring the mass of evidence before the grand jury. The court holds that the issuance of the subpoenas is entirely within the right of the government.

The United States District Attorney Humes may come to the court and secure subpoenas upon every paper and document in the possession of the brewers' association. The grand jury will immediately begin work on the case. The first witnesses to be called are reported to be a number of [illegible] officials.

WAITRESS AT HOSPITAL FALLS IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Caught Between Wall and Elevator Few Feet Below Level of Floor.

Saturday evening Esther Shuback, a waitress at the Clearfield Hospital fell in the elevator shaft on the third floor of the building, and received several bad bruises, but escaped serious injury. It is not known exactly how the accident occurred but it is thought that the door was open and Miss Shuback went to step in the elevator but it had moved a few feet below the floor, without her knowing it and when she took a step in, she fell and was caught between the wall and the elevator. She called for help and when several nurses ran to her assistance they found her caught in this manner. She was released from her position and her bruises treated. She was also badly shaken up but escaped with only minor bruises.

FIRST DRAFTS OF ENGLAND'S DERBY ARMY MOBILIZED

Remarkable Scenes In London Today When Recruits Were Going To Whitehall

Boys Between Nineteen and Twenty-Two Who Weeks Ago Answered Lord Derby's Call Gather Throughout England to Get Into Khaki.

BY WILBUR FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 1.—(By Mail.)—The first drafts of England's Derby Army mobilized today. Youths of years ranging from nineteen to twenty-two who weeks ago answered Lord Derby's group system of enlistment, gathered throughout England to get into khaki. They came from workshops, bank desks, department stores and other walks of life. They are now being distributed in scores of training camps learning to form fours, salute their officers properly and wield the shovel and rifle.

There were remarkable scenes in London today. Recruits had been instructed to come in shifts at two hour intervals. They flocked to the great Central recruiting depot in Whitehall. The first recruit was a little early. He came from a big banking establishment where he had just bade fellow clerks farewell. He had been instructed to appear in his oldest clothes in order that they could be thrown away when he donned his suit of khaki.

The boy followed instructions. His coat and trousers might have been worn by a Weary Willie. His shoes [illegible] down at the heel. Yesterday he wore a [illegible] coat and shiny silk [illegible] bank. He had borrowed [illegible]. A brief medical examination followed his arrival in Whitehall. HIGH SCHOOL WILL PLAY BROOKVILLE HERE FRIDAY

Clearfield Has Fine Record This Season, Being Defeated Only Once.

Friday evening on the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium floor, the Clearfield High school basket ball team will play the strong Brookville High team. The game is expected to be one of the fastest and most interesting of the season here. It is the third game the High school boys have played on the home floor and should be patronized by every one interested in the sport.

Last Friday the Red and Black team met with their first defeat of the season when Indiana Normal outplayed them at Indiana. So far this season Clearfield has won five games lost one and tied one, which is an exceptionally good record considering the class of teams which they play. Coach Reading has his team in fine shape and is confident of adding another victory to the long list.

KEYNOTE OF REPUBLICAN PRINCIPLES EXPECTE DTODAY

Gov. Whitman Declines to Become Candidate, But Will Be Delegate.

New York, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The keynote of Republican national principles in the presidential campaign this year was expected to be sounded in the state platform to be adopted by New York Republicans in state convention at Carnegie Hall here today. The so-called Big Four delegates to the National Republichn convention in Chicago are to be named today and ratified at the April 4th primaries. Elihu Root opened the convention as temporary chairman. Senator Wadsworth and Gov. Whitman have been mentioned as possible delegates at large. Root and William Berri, of Brooklyn, and David Jayne Hill, of Rochester, have also been mentioned as possible delegates. William Barnes, of Albany, has declined to be a delegate. The delegation is expected to go to Chicago uninstructed. The convention today is expected to commend Gov. Whitman's state administration. Whitman has abandoned his presidential aspirations for this year, he has anonunced.

ROUMANIAN MOBILIZATION IS REPORTED COMPLETED

London, Feb. 14. (By United Press)—Belief that Roumania is drifting into the war on the side of the allies was strengthened today by official dispatches from Paris reporting the Roumanian mobolization completed. Paris also reported that reconstruction of Roumanian works along the Danube and on the Hungarian frontier to guard against possible invasions by the Bulgarians or Austro-Hungarians, have been finished.

TONSORIAL PARLORS BOAST THEIR PRICES TODAY

Harrisburg, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—Prices were boosted in every one of Harrisburg's 115 tonsorial parlors today, which hadn't boosted them February 1. A hair cut now costs 25 cents and a shampoo the same, advances of a nickel each. Plain shaves remain at 10 cents, but a simple luxury like hot towels costs half as much more.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER LEVEE BREAKS FLOODING DISTRICT

[illegible], Miss., Feb. 15.—(By United [illegible])—The main Mississippi River levee about 25 miles above St. Joseph, Miss., broke early today. The flood waters are pouring through the huge crevice. Thousands of acres are being flooded. The gap has widened to a mile and hundreds of persons are making their way to the high lands. Five parishes will be flooded. Fifty towns will be overflowed.

TWENTY FOUR MEN PERISH IN MINE FIRE LAST NIGHT

Butte, Mon., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—Rescue men in helmets were today fighting their way to the 1,200 foot level of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company's Pennsylvania mine where twenty-four men were believed to have perished in a fire late last night. Two of the bodies recovered were William Mitchell, assistant mine foreman, and Neil Brennan, a miner.

U. S. MAY OPPOSE TEUTON POLICY TO SINK ARMED BOATS

Resolution Protesting Against Recognition of Order Is Introduced in Senate

Protest Against Policy Would Bring About Delicate Situation With Central Powers — Protest Will Be Made By Allies.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—With only four days remaining, the state department today was still considering the attitude it will take toward the Teuton decree that all armed merchant ships will be torpedoed without warning after February 29th. It was even hinted in high official circles that President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have about concluded that a formal announcement of how this nation views the latest U-boat policy of German and Austria may not be necessary.

This results from realization that to protect the Teutonic decree inevitably would bring about a delicate situation with the central powers in view of the state department's suggestion to the entente allies that they voluntarily agreed to disarm all merchant vessels. On the other hand to accept by formal announcement the Teuton policy, it was pointed out at the state department and in British, French and Italian diplomatic circles here, would bring forth bitter protest against any change of international rules of war as an unneutral act.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—A resolution protesting against recognition by the United States of Germany's order threatening to torpedo armed merchant vessels was introduced in the senate today by Senator Sterling, South Dakota Republican.

THRESHERS PROTECTIVE CONVENTION.

Harrisburg, Feb. 15.—The annual convention of the Pennsylvania Threshmen's and Farmer's Protective Association opened here today. The attendance is large, with much interest in an exhibit of machinery, a new feature. The members plan to make a campaign for a reduction in the liability insurance rate for threshmen's employes, which they declare is unreasonably high.

WAR NEWS OF ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

The greatest aid raid in history to date was made on German positions in Ostend, Zeebrugge, Ghistelles, Middelkerke and other Belgian towns. Germans captured Plock and Bielsk, in Poland. The Russian retreat from East Prussia continued. Greece was concentrating 20,000 troops at Salonica.

WILSON'S HAT IN THE RING.

President Wilson's letter Monday giving formal consent to the use of his name as a candidate for the Presidency was written to satisfy the technical requirements of the Ohio primary law. It adds nothing to what has been known for a long time to the politicians of his own party. It is only a month since the publication of the letter to A. Mitchell Palmer in which he defined his views on the subject of the presidential term and the eligibility of a President for re-election, but it will not be forgotten that that letter was written early in February, 1913. Nor will it be imagined that the President's view of the binding force of the one-term plank of the Baltimore convention was unknown to the leading Democrats of the country in and out of the Administration.

The plank in question was written into the platform solely on the responsibility of Mr. Bryan, and while the President's own silence on the subject during the campaign and his later official relations with the author of what was commonly understood to have been intended to be self-denying ordinance may have led to some temporary uncertainity in the minds of the uninformed as to Mr. Wilson's own intentions and desires, there has never been any serious doubt about the matter. The President has proclaimed his purpose to make no active effort to secure for himself re-nomination. In his letter to Mr. Palmer he announced his willingness to leave his case to the people and to take his "chances in the court of public opinion."

President Wilson has no openly declared opponent before the "court of public opinion"—meaning, in this instance, the public opinion of his own party—if ex-Secretary Bryan is left out of the account. The intentions of Mr. Bryan are for the moment an unknown factor in the equation, as is also the extent and weight of the influence which Mr. Bryan may be able to wield in the coming National Convention of his party. Many things may happen to change the situation in the four months that will elapse before the delegates assemble in Chicago, but from all present indications Wilson and his methods and policies will be the objective toward which the Republicans must aim their batteries.

The President has all the advantages of position. Even though he should keep strictly to his announced intention to forego the use of patronage or coercion to control the selection of delegates, those instruments will undoubtedly be employed in his behalf. This fact alone should awaken the Republicans to the vital necessity of getting together. Only by a genuine, not a factitious, display of harmony, only by a union of forces upon a candidate and a platform really acceptable to both wings of the party can the Republicans be sure of overcoming the initial handicap under which their campaign must be waged.—Philadelphia Ledger.

STATISTICS SHOW FACTS ABOUT MT. CARMEL DEATHS

Editor Predicts That There Will Be No Deaths in 1929.

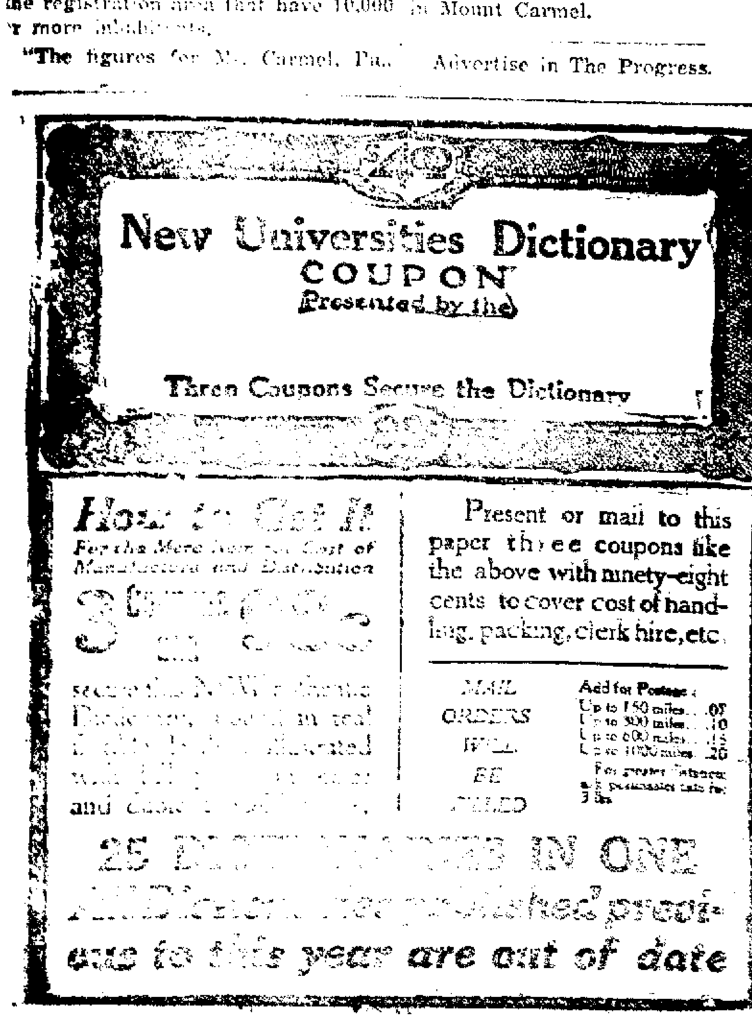

Mount Carmel, Pa., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The following statement was made to the United Press today by W. P. Kemble, editor of the Mount Carmel Item:

The Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Washington, has just issued a bulletin on mortality statistics that shows some surprising facts. The bulletin shows deaths and death rates in 1914, with comparative rates for recent years, for cities in the registration area that have 10,000 or more inhabitants.

"The figures for Mt. Carmel, Pa., show that according to official reports there were 212 deaths in this city in the year 1914. Death rate per 1,000 population for our town is given as follows: Year 1914, 10.9; year 1913, 11.1; year 1912, 12.3; average, 1906 to 1910, 13.9; average 1901 to 1905, was 18.1.

"Assuming that the death rate per thousand inhabitant in 1904 was 18.1, and noting that the precise rate in 1914 was 10.9, a reduction of 7.2, we find that ten years later, in 1924, the death rate should be just 3.7 per thousand, provided the sum total of population does not change, and that at the same ratio of decrease there should be no deaths in the year 1929 in Mount Carmel.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

In the course of a war in which the commonplace dining room table looms as large in considerations of grand strategy as fortified lines, troop distributions, munitions supplies, and favorable battle grounds, it is but natural that work-aday world, whether belligerent or non-belligerent, should, of a sudden, become keenly interested in determining just how it is fed, just where the daily supplies for the kitchen larder come from. Each day of the European war has brought it new conjectures as to the advantages and disadvantages of different nations' places at the world table, and many of these conjectures have been based on more or less reckless guessing. The following sketch of the world's meat supply, taken from a study prepared for the National Geographic Society at Washington by William Joseph Showalter on the sources contributing to Humanity's Market Basket, brings timely and accurate information on a subject over which all people are discussing:

"Taking the world's supply of cattle, hogs, and sheeps, and making proper allowance for the less improved methods of stock raising on other parts of the globe as compared with those of the United States, it appears that mankind at large uses in the neighborhood of forty-seven million pounds of meat a year. This would be an average of about 39 pounds per capita throughout the world. The people of the Uunited States f few years ago were eating 172 pounds per capita, which is more than four times as much as the average for the race.

"Next to the Australians, the American people are the largest of all meat eaters. In butchers' meat, the latest statistics showed the American to be eating 172 pounds, the Englishman 119 pounds, the German 113 pounds, the Frenchman and the Belgian 80 pounds, the Austro-Hungarian 64 pounds, the Russian 50 pounds, and the Spaniard 49 pounds. The average American—whose table, by the way, is the most plenteous table the world around—eats 80½ pounds of beef, 7½ pounds of veal, 78 pounds of pork and lard, and 6½ pounds of mutton and lamb a year.

"Where we eat 80 pounds of beef, the Englishman eats 56 pounds, the Frenchman 37 pounds, and the German 36 pounds. Where we eat 78 pounds of pork, including lard, the Englishman eats 33 pounds, the German 67 pounds, and the Frenchman 26 pounds.

"We eat 7½ pounds of veal where the Englishman eats 4 pounds, the German 7½ pounds, and the Frenchman 8 pounds; and we eat 6½ pounds of mutton and lamb where the Englishman eats 26 pounds, the German 2½ pounds, and the Frenchman 9 pounds.

"From these figures it will be seen that the Frenchman eats less than half the beef we do. He eats as much beef as the German, but less than half as much pork.

"It is interesting to study the per capita production of meats in the countries of the Central Powers at the present time. The statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture reveal the fact that Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey had a total of approximately 50,000,000 cattle before the war began.

"The Department of Agriculture says that about one-fifth of the total number of cattle in Germany are slaughtered annually. Assuming that the net weight of those of Germany and Austria-Hungary corresponds with the net weight of our own cattle, and that the net weight of those of Bulgaria and Turkey is only 300 pounds where ours is 543, it would appear that there is a 34 pound per capita production of beef in the Central Powers.

"There are 37,000,000 hogs in the countries of the Teutonic Alliance. The Department of Agriculture's statistics show that the annual slaughter in Germany is 110.4 per cent. of the total number of hogs on hand at a given time; therefore it would appear that there is a per capita production of pork amounting to 45 pounds in the Central Powers.

"Based on the German ratio of the sheep killed to those found on the farms of the country at a given time, the annual slaughter of sheep in the region controlled by the Central Powers is 31,000,000. Assuming that the average dressed weight per sheep is only 30 pounds, as compared with 41 pounds in the United States, there would be a production of 941,000,000 pounds of mutton, or 6.7 pounds per capita.

"This give sa total production of meat, omitting horse and goat meat, of 85.7 pounds per capita among the Central Powers. The Department of Agriculture gives the average German consumption as 113 pounds, and the average Austro-Hungarian consumption as 64 pounds. It is probable that Bulgarian and Turkish consumption approximates that of the Russian, which is 50 pounds.

"In the past few years the United States has shown a tendency to reduce the volume of meat it consumes per capita. The high cost of butchers' meat has forced Americans to find substitutes, and it is not unprobable that in the course of another generation meat eating in this country will fall far below the mark it has hitherto held.

"Not only has our home consumption of meat fallen off, but our exports of animal products have declined immensely in ten years. If it were not for our enormous exports of lard, we would be in danger of having our foreign meat trade become a negligible quantity.

"But in spite of the slowing up of the per capita home consumption and of our declining meat export trade, the meat-packing industry today still takes first rank among all the manufacturing industries of the United States in the value of its products. Under the 1910 census the products of the meat-packing industry were valued at $1,370,000,000, as compared with $1,228,000,000 for foundry and machine shop products, their closest rival.

"During a recent year the on-the-hoof production of meats on the American farm was 8,265,000,000 pounds of beef, 409,000,000 pounds of veal, 987,000,000 pounds of mutton and lamb, and 6,856,000,000 pounds of pork."

Winnipeg, Man.—Rumors were current here today that the Canadian government plans to take over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from Winnipeg to the Pacific. The cost of $400,000,000. The government recently took over the portion of the road east of Winnipeg, paying $300,000,000 for it.

BALDWIN BUYS LAND MINERS GET INCREASE INDUSTRIAL BRIEFS

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—The Baldwin Locomotive Works it was officialyl announced today has acquired over one hundred acres of land in Ridley township, near here. The land was purchased from the Ward Estates and the deal is said to have involved nearly $200,000.

Although no details were given out officially as to what purpose the new land will be put, it is generally believed, the Baldwin concern contemplates straightening or the Grum River, which passes through the large works of the Baldwin plant emptying into the Delaware River.

Uniontown, Feb. 15.—Announcement has been made here that fifty thousand miners and coke workers in Fayette County are affected by wage increases of ten per cent. The increase is on the scale adopted April 1, 1912, and is the highest ever known in the coke region.

The first announcement was made by the H. C. Frick Coke Company, a subsidiary of the United States Corporation. Shortly afterward the local officials of the W. J. Rainey estate announced the same increase would be given its 1,200 men.

The Frick Company employs about 20,000 men. Officials of independent companies have stated that the increase will be universal throughout the coke region.

Pottstown, Feb. 15.—Officials of the Worth Steel Mills, at Coatesville, announced today that the company has leased the plate mill of the Glasgow Iron Company, at Glasgow, and will incorporate a new company to be known as the Noble Steel Company. The original mill was destroyed by fire 18 years ago and although it was rebuilt it never has been operated.

Reading, Feb. 15.—The Pennsylvania Optical Company will build two new factories this year, one 165 by 60 feet and two stories high, and the other 95 by 45 fett and four stories in height. The construction will be reinforced concrete. The buildings are expected to be completed by September 1.

ROOT AND THE PRESIDENCY.

New York, Feb. 15.—Former Senator Elihu Root celebrated his birthday anniversary today by presiding over the unofficial state convention which met in this city for the purpose of recommending four delegates at large and four alternates to the Republican national convention at Chicago.

Mr. Root is seventy-one years old, a fact that is not wholly without interest in connection with the frequent mention of his name for the Republican president nomination. Mr. Root ha sbeen heard to remark that he considers himself too old to become a candidate for the presidency, but in this particular his friends do not agree with him. It is not to be denied, however, that he is older than any President has been at the time he held office. If nominated and elected to succeed President Wilson Mr. Root would be seventy-two years old at the time of his inauguration. This is three years older than the oldest President has been. The oldest President was William H. Harrison, who was [illegible] of his inauguration [illegible]. The next oldest of our chief executives was James Buchanan, who was [illegible] of age at the time he [illegible].

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

I have a four cylinder car which I am st[illegible] for a [illegible] roadster. I wish to make it as light and fast as possible. Will you kindly give me some points on this matter?

First consider the weight of the vehicle [illegible] removing all [illegible] Since wind resistance [illegible] it becomes evident that every effort should be made to streamline the car. [illegible] air currents [illegible] It is considered [illegible] to care for the rear of the car as it is to look after the front in this respect. After the parts have been stream lined as much as possible the mechanical end should be considered. If possible, the valve seats should be increased in size and new and larger valves obtained. The size of the valve seats may be increased [illegible] The life of the [illegible] larger [illegible] the [illegible] if the throttle is set down too far. [illegible] carburetor, for if the [illegible] valves are made larger [illegible] The [illegible] is [illegible] somewhat by removing one of the piston rings, but if the pistons have but two narrow rings this should not be done. [illegible] pistons help matters [illegible] use an aluminum alloy [illegible] steel, while others [illegible] pistons and drill holes in them. [illegible] piston should weigh the same as [illegible] Use lighter [illegible] rods if possible, but do not [illegible] from the old ones, for [illegible] New [illegible]

One of the first essentials for a [illegible] is to have a pressure oiling system, with a hand control on the [illegible] or other place within easy reach of the driver [illegible] carrying oil from the [illegible] to the crank case [illegible] valves properly placed can control the direction of flow. The [illegible] of [illegible] cars are equipped with magnetos of the double distributor type, so that they feed to two sets of spark plugs at the same time.

Is it necessary to oil a lighting generator?

[illegible] the ball bearings at the ends of the armature shaft should be [illegible] with four or five drops of oil. [illegible] oil holes in the [illegible] which the spout of the oil can may be directed.

What is the best method of cleaning leather upholstery?

The best thing to apply to the upholstery if you would preserve its softness [illegible] good leather dressing preparation. There are a number of good ones on the market. If you were to take two six volt lamps consuming five-tenths amperes each and place them in series in a six volt line the lamps would burn dimly, because they would be operating at one-half their regular voltage.

When using a six cylinder engine, three and one-half [illegible] candle power seven volt headlights switched on full, one tail light and one dash light, each four candle power, three and one-half volt, what proportion of the [illegible] is consumed for ignition of the engine?

The ignition system does not take very much current, the total amount being measured in milliamperes. The exact amount required depends upon the resistance of the ignition system.

Is the amount of current consumed for ignition constant, or do different engine speeds or different road conditions cause it to vary?

The current consumed varies slightly because as the compression increases due to throttle opening, the resistance to the current becomes greater. This difference in current consumption at [illegible] and [illegible] r. p. m. would be [illegible] and would require delicate instruments for measurement.

Is there any preparation which can be used to keep the water from coming through a mohair top?

My engine misfires very badly and hasn't any power to pull on a [illegible] of a hill. I had [illegible] the carburetor cleaned and [illegible] changed, but still it will [illegible] What is the cause of this trouble?

If the engine [illegible] is [illegible] and adjusted properly and as you say, the motor [illegible] the trouble may be caused by poor valve timing, air leaks around the inlet manifold, valve plugs, etc., poor adjustments of the spark plug points, cracked spark plug insulators or [illegible] in the wiring. If the [illegible] comes from one cylinder [illegible] faulty ignition or [illegible] in that cylinder, but if [illegible] in one cylinder and then in another you may look to carburetion. Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By [illegible]EEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

INDIANA TO HOLD MOST MOMENTOUS PRIMARY CONTEST

Wilson And Fairbanks Only Presidential Candidates On Indiana Ballot

Prohibition Fight Greatest State Issue This Year—Contest For Senatorship Closely Interwoven With Contest For Gubernatorial Nomination.4

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Three weeks from today Indiana citizens will troop to the polls to cast their ballots in the most momentous primary contest ever held in the state. A feature of the primary will be the selection of delegates to the presidential nominating conventons—the first to be named in any of the states. In adition, the primary will decide the candidates for United States senator and for governor and other state officials to be voted for at the election next November.

Under the new primary law the voters of the state vote a presidential preference at the primaries, for the first time. Wilson and Fairbanks will have the support of the Indiana Democrats and Republicans, respectively. No other names will appear on the ballot. Under the law the Indiana delegates will be required to support the primary choice for President as long as his name is before the national convention. If he fails of nomination and his name is withdrawn the delegates are free to support whom they please.

No opposition exists to the renomination of Senator John W. Kern by the Democrats. The Republicans have several candidates for the senatorship. James E. Watson, Republican whip when Cannon was speaker of the House, is a candidate. So is Harry New, member of the Republican National Committee for eight years. Arthur Robinson, Republican leader in the last state senate, also is a candidate.

On the Republican side the contest for the senatorship is closely interwoven with the contest for the gubernatorial nomination. The aspirants for the head of the Republican state ticket are Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, James P. Goodrich, of Winchester, Quincey A. Myers, of Logansport, and R. O. Johnson, of Gary.

The Watson candidacy for the senatorship is especially undesirable to those who are backing Goodrich for the governorship nomination. Mr. Goodrich for ten years was Republican state chairman, and he held on pretty close to the time the Progressives slipped away from the party. Mr. Goodrich is not known as a stand patter, at least his affiliations have not been what those of Watson have been, and his friends believe that with him they could get the support of the former Progressives. But with Watson on the ticket as the candidate fo rsenator and Goodrich as the candidate for governor it is feared that Progressives might shy. The Goodrich supporters favor Harry New for the senatorship and they appear confident in the belief that New has the inside track over Watson.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for governor is between John A. M. Adair, of Portland, for eight years a representative in congress from the Eighth district, and Leonard G. Clore, of Laporte. Unbiased onlookers are picking Adair to win because he has the support of the strong state organization.

The Progressives have filed petitions for candidates for United States senator and governor, but none for President. Judge James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, will be the party choice for senator and former Gov. J. Frank Hanly will have no oppesition for the head of the state ticket. While the Progressive leaders can scarcely hope to carry Indiana for a separate candidate, the party may nevertheless play a considerable part in the election results. A number of congressional districts, as well as many individual counties, are very close and a poll of only about 5 per cent. by the Progressives might swing the election to the other party.

The big state issue in Indiana this year, and one that will probably decide the contest for United States senator as well, is the prohibition fight—or rather, the fight to keep away from prohibition. Each side fears the issue and in all probability neither platform will contain a prohibition pank. Yet prohibition is the real question in Indiana politics at the present time and it may have a deciding effect upon the national election in this state. Some years ago seventy-seven out of ninety-two counties in Indiana were as dry as laws could make them. In twelve counties the question came to a vote. Then the unit of prohibition was changed to the city, village or township, and practically all of Indiana voted to turn "wet" again.

DUCK SEASON OPENS TODAY.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—(By United Press.)—The spring duc kshooting season opened in Illinois today but the waterfowl are passing over the Sucker fields, rivers and lakes unmolested because the Federal law prohibits the killing of ducks except in the fall.

Illinois hunters are awaiting anxiously and somewhat impatiently for the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Kansas case which tests the validity of the law eliminating the spring shooting season. In Kansas the order was held unconstitutional and the government appealed to the supreme court, where it has been pending since 1914.

SUFFERING SNAKES.

Greenville, Pa., Feb. 15.—Two residents of Stoneboro near here have added another tale to Pennsylvania's famous list of snake stories. The two men moved a log while walking through a heavy patch of timber near the city and were almost paralyzed with fright at the sight of a nest of fifty black snakes. Recovering their composure, they began a slaughter which resulted in the death of twenty seven snakes.

Stomach Troubles Quickly Cured.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take Tonoline Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink Tonoline tablets sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in two minutes. The heaviness disappears and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

Tonoline Tablets [illegible] not only [illegible] relieve [illegible] distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal.

INDIVIDUAL DRINKING CUPS FOR HORSES.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15.—A ban on the public drinking fountain for horses has been proposed by humane societies here following the rapid spread of glanders, an extremely contagious disease. The disease is so insidious that a grave danger faces not only the animals but the families of men caring for afflicted horses. Dr. D. C. Geerhart has called attention to the danger by reporting two cases. One horse he attended was owned by a milkman and the other by a butcher. To stamp out the disease, various organizations plan to replace the drinking fountains with hydrants and compel driver to carry individual drinking buckets for theri animals.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a seive and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless. 7
